

EMO Trans committed to C-TPAT program

COMPANY PROFILE

All signs indicate that the Customs-Trade Partnership Against Terrorism is here to stay and seems to be evolving into more than just a "voluntary" program. The latest timelines to implement individual elements of the program during 2005, as well as the addition of Customs and Border Protection specialists for validation purposes, are indicative. The resources devoted by all participants to monitor, expand on and train to maintain their C-TPAT procedures are considerable. All participants are looking ahead to reap the anticipated benefits Customs announced.

Realizing the importance of the C-TPAT initiative for all importers and to secure the supply chain in general, EMO Trans and its subsidiary, ETB (brokerage), applied for program certification as soon as it became available to forwarders, brokers and consolidators. We received our certificate in February 2003, and we have been able to work with importers to develop their own procedures and to provide services to those already certified and who require the use of known C-TPAT participating providers.

EMO Trans is committed to C-TPAT by providing support for faster clearances, less-intensive examinations and faster deliveries.

EMO Trans is committed to the C-TPAT program by providing the support needed for faster clearances, less intensive examinations and faster deliveries.
